December 28, 2022

Sangam Festival is an organization to preserve, promote, and present works of world-class Indian classical artists and South Asian Arts – dance and music. Sangam Festival is also an organization promoted by Bharatanatyam exponent and scholar Bala Devi Chandrashekar & Chandru Balaraman an entrepreneur. Sangam Festival will constantly attempt to establish the confluence of Indian classical music and dance from all parts of India and South Asia, whilst constantly exploring the possibility of collaborating with artists from other world traditions as well.

Sangam Festival is a quality art initiative and serves as a top-quality resource repository of knowledge, promotion, reference, and pillar of support for the arts community in the USA and India. Sangam Festival strives to educate and instill in the community a sense of appreciation of genuine classical Indian and South Asian performing arts of world-class standards and strives to combine it with the spirit of social responsibility and community service. Activities will include performances, lectures, workshops, Digital resources, Mentoring, and financial support for artists. Sangam Festival will be an authentic source for Universities and colleges to augment their Indian Classical, South Asian performing repository through expertise, resource, and Knowledge sharing. Sangam Festival has plans to tie up with premier arts organizations across the world to facilitate residential exchange programs.

Guru Lakshmi Vishwanathan is a Bharatanatyam dancer, a prime disciple of Guru Kanjeevaram Elappa Pillai, steeped in the culture of TANJAVUR. She has widened her horizon in the field of art by not only performing in India and more than ten countries abroad in prestigious forums but also using her erudite scholarship to reach many people with her engaging articles in art journals, newspapers, and dance portals.
